

Motorola V295

Style, sophistication and substance defines the Motorola V295. This new phone offers an elegant color screen in a sleek clamshell design with a price tag that makes it pleasing to your eye as well as your wallet. With an integrated camera and Multi Media Messaging (MMS) your friends will never feel left behind – just take a picture and send it to friends and family with a personalized voice message recorded by you. The phone's Java™ technology lets you download new games and applications and advanced sound ensures that each incoming call will be music to your ears. The new Motorola V295 gives you a high-tech device at an affordable price and makes room for other “must-haves.”

Put Your Camera in Your Pocket

Never miss a memorable moment. The Motorola V295's integrated camera is perfect for capturing life's unplanned adventures. And with MMS you can save and send these memories to friends with compatible phones or to a PC. The integrated camera also makes it possible to personalize your phone book and caller ID so you get a picture-perfect image each time your handset rings*.

Your Message, Your Way

Plain text messages are a thing of the past. The new millennium calls for messages that have added flair and the Motorola V295's MMS functionality promises that no one will call you old-fashioned. Send animated icons, music, pictures and more with just a few touches to the number pad – never send a text-only message again.

Unlimited Entertainment

Eliminate boredom completely. The Motorola V295 comes with embedded games that can keep you entertained for hours. But what happens when your tire of these games? Do not fear – thanks to Java technology you can easy download new games and keep your boredom at bay.

Music to Your Ears

With a polyphonic speaker and MIDI sounds, you will groove to music each time your Motorola V295 rings. And with Java technology, you can download new ring tunes by your favorite artist to ensure that even your incoming calls ooze style.

Keep it Brief

There are never enough hours in the day. Save a minute or two each day thanks to your phone's Instant Messaging feature. Keep messages short and sweet and save time for more important endeavors.

Online and On-the-Move

With GPRS technology the Motorola V295 gives you 'always connected' access* to the World Wide Web and ensures that you will be full of knowledge whether at work, at home or on a weekend get-away.

Fashion Forward and Budget Friendly

A sleek clamshell style guarantees that your Motorola V295 will fit into slim pockets with ease and its interchangeable lenses ensure that it will match your ever-changing style. Topping off communication benefits, the Motorola V295 boasts a low cost that will make you smile each time you take a picture, download a game, send an animated message or are notified of calls with musical ring tunes.

The Motorola V295 will first be brought to market in APAC, in the first half of 2003. For additional information regarding product availability and MSRP, please check with your local Motorola representative.
